

CHICAGO WOMAN VICTIM OF MYSTERY SLAYING

SEES DISASTER SURE RESULT OF ROOSEVELT PLAN

Famous Financial Expert Resigns From Treasury Dept.

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—Washington today sought further administration reactions to the avowed intention of Dr. O. M. W. Sprague, resigned financial adviser in the Treasury Department, to help build up the "aroused and organized public opinion" he said was necessary to keep Federal fiscal policies from bringing "unrestrained inflation."

The search was rather difficult because of the ruling by the new Treasury chief, Acting Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., that all departmental information must pass through designated channels. But it was recalled that Sprague's resignation, which he announced yesterday, was submitted informally to President Roosevelt last Thursday and that no noticeable change in policy had been made since.

Predicts Disaster
In a letter to the President that predicted disaster would follow the administration's plan for raising commodity prices by increasing the money value of gold, he said the only defense against the dangers he saw was "an aroused and organized public opinion." He said he hoped to take part in such an effort.

Opposes Depreciation Plan
Interpreting the Roosevelt plan for increasing commodity prices throughout the nation by buying gold both here and abroad as an effort to depreciate the currency, Sprague expressed opposition to it and predicted failure.

"The present policy threatens a complete breakdown of the credit of the government," he wrote. "The recovery program involves expenditures far in excess of current revenues. Certainly as much as two billions of dollars must be borrowed during the remainder of the fiscal year."

"Bonds, including government bonds, are an unsatisfactory investment at a time when a government is determined to depreciate its currency."

"Already many issues of government securities have dropped below par, including the issue that was brought out in October."

"I believe you are faced with the alternative either of giving up the present policy or of the meeting of government expenditures with additional paper money."

Fear May Bring Rise
"You will then no doubt secure a rise in prices, for you will be faced with distrust of the currency, already manifest in a growing flight from the dollar, but extending into a frantic desire to hold anything other than currency or securities yielding a fixed interest return."

He declared a conviction that the gold buying policy would "prove ineffective in securing a speedy rise in prices, asserting this could come only through measures increasing and sustaining consuming power."

"This is not because of any inability to depreciate the dollar. When a government announces its determination to depreciate its own currency it can certainly accomplish that result, and without the necessity of acquiring any considerable amounts of gold in other countries; since no sensible person will desire in such circumstances to acquire more of the currency."

"But more depreciation of the currencies of other countries will not bring about a general rise in prices, in the presence of widespread distrust of the currency, at a time when there is a large excess plant capacity and millions of unemployed wage earners."

"An advance in prices that has any promise of being maintained requires the development of conditions that will permit a sustained demand for more labor and more materials, with resultant increase in the production of goods and services and a higher standard of living."

"There is nothing in the depreciation of the dollar to induce this increased demand for materials and labor."

Here's How You Will Figure the Value Of Dollar

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—Pretzels, castor oil, ground bones, caskets and snuff are some of the articles whose prices may be used as an index to determine the varying gold value of the "commodity dollar" if such a currency unit is adopted.

They are among the 784 articles studied by the Labor Department in fixing the index number of wholesale commodity prices whose fluctuations, some economists urge, should govern the dollar's metal base.

If prices rose, as shown by the index, the gold or other metallic backing of the dollar would be reduced, and if they fell it would be increased. Theoretically, the dollar's purchasing power in terms of commodities would remain constant under this scheme.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics has been calculating the index figure for years.

The 784 commodities are divided into ten classifications, which follow together with the percentage of weight given them in making the index number calculation:

Farm products, 17.20; foods, 19.44; hides and leather products, 3.02; textile products, 9.95; fuel and lighting, 14.72 per cent; metals and metal products, 15.48; building materials, 6.34; chemicals and drugs, 1.23; house-furnishing goods, 3.00; Miscellaneous, 9.23.

Some items count heavily in the final computation. Hogs are given a weight of 2.92 per cent, while onions count only .03 of one per cent.

The biggest weight given any single item out of the 784 commodities is 4.37 for the average price of all passenger automobiles.

In contrast, castor oil, ground bones and pretzels count only .01 of one per cent; caskets .1 of one per cent; and snuff .06 of one per cent.

STANDARDS OF DIXON SCHOOLS ARE THREATENED

President Of Board Of Education Reveals Vital Facts

President O. F. Goeke of the board of education of the Dixon public school system addressed the meeting of the Dixon League of Women Voters last evening at the high school at which time he gave in a very interesting manner, his views on the subject, "Dixon Schools and Their Financial Problems."

Mrs. Willard Thompson called the meeting to order and turned the program over to Mrs. Florence White, chairman of the Department of Education committee, all regular business being waived to provide more time for the speaker. Mrs. White presented the speaker of the evening to the well filled room of teachers and members of the League, together with several visitors.

Mr. Goeke began his talk by stating that the schools of America today are looking to the educated parenthood of the country and after the period of industrial collapse, were facing the future with our mortgage. Every person, he stated, was crying out against additional governmental taxation and the schools were no exception. Education, he said, of our children is our hope for our future and he urged that the boys and girls of today be given every educational facility.

Critics Not Resented
"As president of the board of education, I am aware of some of the faults of our school system. There are complaints that we have too many teachers, that we entertain too many subjects which are called frills, that the school tax is too high and that we pay our teachers too much. I regret that there are not a number of these critics here this evening, but their absence indicates that they are not desirous of learning the true facts. It is hard to judge unless

When it was suggested that the federal administration might reject such an intensive program of brush removal in Lee county, Supervisor Gilbert Finch of Amboy remarked:

"I am of the opinion that it is just as essential that we cut weeds and brush along the roads of the county townships and improve them in this manner, as it is to build bridge paths."

14 MET DEATH IN CRASH OF HUGE RUSSIAN PLANE

Largest Land Plane in World Fell At Mhar-kov Yesterday

Moscow, Nov. 22 (AP)—A dispatch from Kharkov said the newly-constructed airplane K-7, said to be the largest airplane for overland flying in the world, crashed there yesterday, killing 14 persons.

The dead were reported to include the chief pilot and mechanics and several Kharkov aviation officials, but beyond these bare facts no details were given out.

A Soviet government commission was appointed immediately to investigate the cause of the crash and establish responsibility for it.

Had No Fuselage
The K-7 was a six-motored monoplane without the orthodox fuselage. Instead, all accommodations for luggage and fuel space as well as controls were in the wings. Only a slight frame work of steel composed the structure on which the rudder was anchored.

The great airplane was designated to carry 123 persons including its crew. It was designed with sleeping accommodations for 64 persons, divided into 16 cabins containing four berths each.

It was commissioned November 14 after undergoing a series of test flights which Joseph Stalin, head of the Communist party, acclaimed as a new victory for the Soviet aviation industry.

They called the plane the pride of the Soviet air fleet.

WIDOW OF OIL EXECUTIVE IS UNDER ARREST

Warrant Charging Mrs. Sheldon Clark With Murder Is Served

Paulsboro, N. J., Nov. 22 (AP)—Famed "Jersey Justice" struck its stride today and moved in high gear on Mrs. Audrey Smith Clark, former stage dancer charged with slaying her wealthy young husband, Sheldon A. Clark, oil company executive and sportsman.

A warrant charging murder was served on her last night in a Woodbury hospital, 24 hours after her husband was shot to death in a tragic sequel to a bitter quarrel between them in their spacious home.

Lynwood Lord, Acting Prosecutor of Gloucester county, said he planned to have a magistrate go to the hospital today and formally arraign Mrs. Clark, under double police guard since she threatened to take her own life.

Is Recovering
She is recovering from head injuries which, police said, were inflicted by her husband just before he was killed. Investigators said he broke a billiard cue over her head and that she followed him to the basement billiard room where the shooting occurred.

Pleading for sight of her children, the young widow sobbed her love for her husband yesterday.

"Nobody ever will know how much I cared for him or how much I put up with," she declared. Later she said:

"I want to go to the funeral. I must go. I can't let them bury Sheldon without being there to say goodbye to him."

A pathetic scene was enacted between the young mother and her two young sons. Both boys were subdued on reaching her bedside but burst into tears on being led away.

The slain man was a son of A. Sheldon Clark of Barrington, Ill., vice president of the Sinclair Refining Company.

Young Widow Borrowed Plane to Fly to Death in Restless Ocean Water

Notes Found Long After Takeoff Told Of Her Plans

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 22 (AP)—Restless waters of the broad Atlantic today apparently formed a grave for Mrs. Louise Turk Stanton, who borrowed a plane and flew seaward to meet death wherever the craft's fuel ran out. The 30-year-old Junior League had recently lost her husband in an automobile accident.

In notes left behind she asked that it not be called suicide—for "I particularly dislike the word suicide"—and explained she just wanted to go "out into space and find out what it's all about, and if there isn't anything—that's O. K. too."

It was hours after she flew eastward in the borrowed plane with about enough gasoline to last four hours and take her some 350 miles to sea, that airport authorities found the notes and began a search. It was too late then. Then, too, in her notes she had begged them not to undertake a dangerous search which she said "wouldn't do any good."

"Better Than 'Accident'"
To Bert Maloney, airport manager, she wrote: "There's not a plane on the field that can reach me (and return) or do anything if they could—I'll be at sea, that's all, and you can count on me that the job will be thorough. I don't want any wreckage found." She also told him "you must absolutely keep any of the men from doing any dangerous searching, x x x Sorry to have it that way but it's better than having an aviation 'accident.'"

Friends said they believed Mrs. Stanton was grief-stricken over the death of her husband, Gordon M. Stanton, who lost his life in an automobile accident here less than two weeks ago. They had been married less than a year.

Her Family Silent
Her family—she was the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Raymond C. Turk—was silent and did not disclose the contents of notes she left to them. In the note to the airport manager, the young woman had requested that there be no "sentimentalism."

To her flying instructor, Laurie Yonge, she wrote saying she had made arrangements for replacing his plane which she used on the fatal flight and expressing a hope he would be able to get another plane just like the one in which she was believed to have flown to her death.

RAPID DESCENT OF BAG ALARMED TWO AERONAUTS

Major Fordney Almost Became a Member Of Caterpillar Club

Bridgeport, N. J., Nov. 22 (AP)—Back from a region where air is thin and cosmic rays are thick, Major Chester L. Fordney, Marine Corps mathematician, says he almost joined the "Caterpillar Club" near the close of his successful flight to the stratosphere with Lieut.-Commander T. G. W. (Tex) Settle.

"I had just looked out a hatch and had seen a large body of water beneath when Commander Settle remarked perhaps I'd have to take the parachute and go overboard as ballast because we were falling rather fast," Fordney related.

"What about that water?" I queried. "Why were we over that already, that was Delaware Bay," he answered. "But I didn't have to jump after all."

Balloons Jubilant
Jubilant over the success of their flight, on which they reached an altitude of 59,000 feet, more than 11 miles, Commander Settle flew to Washington late yesterday, leaving his companion to supervise transportation of the balloon and its metal gondola from the Jersey marshes to the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst. Then it goes to a New York exhibit.

With its departure, south Jersey settled back in its workaday calm, so far from the perpetual sunshine of the stratosphere, under hours of hectic excitement during the search for the balloons, who, landing at 5:50 P. M. Monday, spent the night with their craft and made their way to a farmhouse and the outside world the next day.

BRUSH FIRE IN CALIF. MENACE TO BIG ESTATES

600 Trained Firemen Called To Battle Roaring Flames

Los Angeles, Nov. 22 (AP)—Six hundred trained fire-fighters were called into service today when a brush fire, fanned by a steady wind, roared over a two-mile front in the foothills near the La Canada and La Crescenta residential districts in which many wealthy persons have their estates.

The fire started in Pickets Canyon shortly after 8 P. M. Tuesday and later swept into Sutton Canyon, destroying vegetation in both canyons. The area is a watershed and source of the water supply of the La Canada irrigation district.

Fire-fighters reported early today that only a small cabin in the Pickets Canyon had been destroyed. A man and two small children were reported to have fled to safety from the cabin before it burned.

Fire officials said they hoped to get the fire under control within a few hours.

TWO BILLS FOR LIQUOR CONTROL ARE SUBMITTED

State Commission Is Unable To Agree On Either One

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22 (AP)—In its second special session, the Illinois Legislature today took up the task of attempting to agree on some system for the taxation and control of liquor sales after the repeal of prohibition.

Failure to adopt a definite plan was reported by the State Liquor Control Commission, which submitted a series of general recommendations and offered two bills for consideration.

With nothing else to do, the second special session was not expected to compose its controversies and get a two-thirds emergency majority for any bill until several weeks after December 5, when the 18th Amendment will officially die.

Legislative leaders would not comment on how long it would take to finish the job. Observers said it might perhaps be by Christmas.

Other Control Plans

Adding to the controversy over the commission's two bills, each representing widely varied points of view, were a series of other control plans which were ready for introduction in both houses.

The state commission, which studied the liquor question for months under the leadership of Senator Harold G. Ward, Chicago Democrat, left its work incomplete late yesterday and announced that unanimous decision was reached to let the legislature choose between the two bills, or guide itself only by the general recommendations.

Home rule was the issue within the commission, with most of the (Continued on Page 5)

BODY, SHOT THRU HEART, FOUND ON DOCTOR'S TABLE

Clothing Was Piled Neatly On Chair Beside: Seek Mate

Chicago, Nov. 22 (AP)—Earl Wynkoop, 27, was reported today to have been in Chicago not more than a few hours before and perhaps at the same time his pretty, red-haired wife, Rhea, 23, was killed with a pistol bullet through her heart.

A further revelation in the bizarre murder mystery came today in testimony at the inquest that Mrs. Wynkoop had been stupefied with chloroform before she was shot.

"I found a cloth over the victim's mouth," testified Police Lieut. Charles Peterson. "There was no chloroform on the cloth, but there was a bottle of it nearby."

That the husband had been in Chicago yesterday was asserted by his mother.

On Operating Table

Mrs. Wynkoop, talented violinist and artist, was found dead last night on an operating table in the basement of the 16-room mansion of her mother-in-law, Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynkoop, 63, well known physician in her own right and member of a famous family of doctors.

There was a single bullet wound beneath her left shoulder blade, fired with deadly precision to pass through the heart. Nearby lay a pistol from which three shots had been fired. The young woman's clothing was piled neatly on a chair. She was nude except for a single garment.

Uncanny Mystery

To make the weird murder even more uncanny, there were many of the elements of a detective mystery thriller—a mysterious telegram, a passionately termed love note, scratches as from sharp fingernails on the victim's face, reports that a drug addict had frequented the home to do odd jobs.

The young husband first was reported enroute to Arizona with a friend, Stanley Young, to take photographs of the Grand Canyon. An hour before the body was found, fax downward and wrapped in a blanket, Dr. Wynkoop received a telegram from Peoria, Ill., that read:

"Stanley has domestic difficulties. Starting home tonight." It was signed with the initial "W."

2 bay leaves
6 whole cloves
Water
Scrub ham with stiff brush. Fit into kettle, add rest of ingredients and cover by 4 inches with water. Add lid and heat slowly to boiling. Lower fire and simmer until ham is tender when tested with fork. It will require at least 4 hours, possibly five. The ham must be cooked slowly and it must be tender. Let ham cool in stock. Remove ham and fit into shallow pan. Cover with sugar mixture.

Foot Comfort Is Big Beauty Aid

Foot comfort has a lot to do with the beauty of your face and figure.
Shoes that are too tight or those which have the wrong arches can cause deep wrinkles and a bad posture more quickly than anything else. It is practically impossible to present a rested, calm, unlined face if your feet are aching and tired.
When you buy new winter shoes make sure they are the right width and length and that the arches of them are suited to your feet.
It is a good idea to have one pair of shoes with low or medium heels. Wear them at work or when you are doing a lot of walking. There was a time when low-heeled shoes were ugly, but nowadays some of our best manufacturers specialize in low-heeled footwear, that is neither too flitting nor unfit for anything but hiking into the country. You can have even shoes with medium heels, if you choose.
Whatever type you prefer, be sure that you can stand correctly once you get them on. You don't want your whole body to be thrown forward—neither do you want it to bend backward.
If you have a corn, pad it well with cotton before you start wear in a new pair of shoes. Do likewise with a bunion. With a little medical treatment, and shoes that are long enough, the corn soon will disappear.

STANDARDS OF DIXON SCHOOLS ARE THREATENED

we have a standard and it is good for us to have these critics.
"By comparison, I hope to be able to help you to determine if the schools of Dixon are average, below or above or far better than the average. In Dixon the number of high school pupils per teacher is 32.4; in Sterling, 23; Naperville, 20.8; DeKalb, 22.3; Mendota, 18.6; Princeton, 29.5; Rochelle, 21.1 and Wheaton, 20.1. These are towns comparable in size to Dixon and by these figures we find that in Dixon's case there are either too few teachers or no one else in Illinois knows how many teachers the pupils should have. Practically the same situation prevails in the elementary schools of Dixon.

Other Comparisons
"The question arises as to the tax rate. In Dixon we have a common school district which is operating a high school. Most of the others have a common school district and in addition to this a high school district which permits taxes being levied for each year. Our tax rate was $1.33 1-3 per one hundred dollars valuation and this year it will be $1.37 1-2, the increase being due to a confusion in the state distributive school fund which is no fault of your board of education. Of this amount 37 1-2 cents goes to the building fund and one dollar for all educational purposes. By way of comparison, let me quote you tax rates from towns of the size comparable to Dixon for last year: Sterling, 1.67; Naperville, 3.38; DeKalb, 2.24; Mendota, $2.11 1-2; Princeton, $2.38; Streator, $3.04; Rochelle, $2.14; Wheaton, $3.19; LaSalle, $2.34 and Ottawa, $2.14. Again we observe that the Dixon tax rate is lower than any other town of comparable size in this vicinity.

"Let us now consider briefly the number of teachers. In 1924 there were 440 pupils in the high school in Dixon, and in 1932 there were 780 students being taught with one teacher than in 1924. Either we are not guilty of having a surplus of teachers in Dixon or there is no justification for the number of teachers employed in 1924. There is the complaint that some subjects might possibly be eliminated from the curriculum of our present system. Our teachers are handling the maximum number of pupils and by discontinuing one course, would throw a greater number of students into other departments which would necessitate the hiring of additional instructors. There is no economy in denying the pupils the advantages of school work.

Incurred Expenses
"In the school year 1931-32 the compilation shows a total of incurred expenses of $74.24 per pupil. A federal survey shows that the average cost in cities listed in the classification of Dixon amounted to $84.90, and in four groups in the United States, the average cost per pupil was $113.03.
"The question of teacher's salaries might well be considered in this connection. In 1926 a teacher received $1,520 per year. Since then the price of other labor has increased, in many instances 100 per cent, but now we find that same teacher is receiving $1,328. That teacher did not participate in the inflation of salaries in the period of 1929. This might well serve as an answer to those who advise a ruthless slashing of teachers' salaries without first having given the subject due consideration.

"When we realize that the American people pay approximately as much for tobacco in one year as they do for education of children, let me ask, is it a burden? It is unfortunate that our tax bill comes in one lump sum and provides 35 per cent for schools. We might take for instance a property owner whose total tax is $100. He has two children attending school and his school tax amounts to about $36 and if they are in high school, about $120. It costs Dixon about $240 to educate these two children.

Board Has Listened

"The Board of Education has listened to many and varied opinions pertaining to expense reduction, they have listened attentively to constructive criticism and have granted a partial hearing to all worthwhile objections for consideration. There have been none of these who have come saying that they could not pay their taxes on their homes. There have been some who have owned two farms and six houses, and another who owned 1,000 acres of land who complained that they could not pay the taxes on these properties. Should we penalize the future leaders of America, our boys and girls of today who represent all that we have which is really worth while by not giving them the best training possible for the sole purpose of satisfying a man who has six houses who he cannot live in or the one who has more land than he possibly can make use of?

Can Combat Movement
"Your organization can accomplish a great deal to combat the insidious inclination which leads people to believe that they cannot pay their school tax. Education is an inheritance of the boys and girls of today. This is what we are facing in Dixon where we are limited to one dollar for operating expenses. It is impossible to vote an increased school tax at this time. On the other hand, every time the value of property is reduced, we are forced to operate on a reduced scale. Our teachers are receiving a lower rate of pay than in other northern Illinois towns of comparable size. What will be the inevitable result? We will be compelled to sacrifice the education that we are giving our children to day. It is impossible for the Dixon school system to suffer further reductions. We are at present carrying as big a load as we did in the most prosperous times. We cannot continue to maintain our high standard of instruction if we do not immediately come to the rescue. I urge the members of this league to spread this information to all in support of our present program and to do all in their power to create sentiment in favor of the continuance of the high standard of the Dixon school system.

Mrs. White extended a vote of thanks from the League to President Goeke for his enlightening and interesting message, adding that it had served to make a good start in the cooperation for the betterment of the schools of Dixon. She was followed by the President, Mrs. Willard Thompson who spoke of the conditions in the Chicago school system where figures and facts such as had been given by President Goeke were not available and in closing she explained the plans and purposes of the League of Women Voters.

Miss Bernice Stauffer Honored Guest; Miscellaneous Shower

On Monday evening a company of about forty-five relatives and friends met in the basement of the Christian church where they held a miscellaneous shower for Miss Bernice Stauffer who is to be married on December 2nd, at Holingsworth, Kas., to Ralph Cox of Great Bend, Kansas. Miss Stauffer recently came to Dixon with her parents, who will reside here and she will return to their former home where she will be wed.
Mrs. David Bovey and Mrs. Harry Stauffer were the hostesses for the evening. The first feature of the happy affair which was all a surprise to Miss Stauffer, was the delicious picnic dinner which everyone enjoyed very much. Decorations were in bronze, and yellow and white chrysanthemums. The centerpiece of the main table was a chariot formed of a pumpkin filled with fruit and drawn by miniature turkeys. After the dinner Miss Stauffer was presented with a shower of lovely gifts for the new home in Kansas followed by the best wishes of her many friends for happiness in the new life-to-be.

MR. MORGENTHAU'S IDEALS.

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., who has been made acting secretary of the treasury, was a student at Cornell university whence came Professor Warren, the President's adviser on rubber dollars. Since 1922 he has been publisher of the American Agriculturist. As the ideas and ideals of the college professors have been sought in the books they have written, a few sign-posts are found in Mr. Morgenthau's publication.

Last March he said:
"There is not enough money to back the new currency on the same old basis. One way to get more currency into circulation is to revalue the dollar by not putting so much gold into it."

In April he said:
Reflation . . . if it can be controlled, will do more than all the other relief measures put together to end hard times. . . . However, America must make certain that any method for inflation can be controlled. Wild inflation would, in time, ruin the country. . . . Free and unlimited coinage of silver for example, on a 16 to 1 basis, would not work and would be disastrous. . . .

"However, it is possible to put both gold and silver back of our currency, limiting the amount of silver to be used for such purpose. Under proper control, two metals back of the dollar are better than one, because there would be less fluctuation. . . . Something more than gold is needed to stabilize our currency. In our opinion, the best plan for reflation which would last is the compensated dollar. (That's the Warren and Pearson rubber dollar)."

On November 11 his publication said:
"The President's announced purpose to restore the price of American products by this means more nearly to the level at which the bulk of the outstanding debts was incurred and to use the effective means thereafter to maintain a stable price level will, if it is successful, do more to restore and maintain prosperity than all other remedies put together."

WHY WE HAD FAILED TO RECOGNIZE RUSSIA.

The policy of the United States government, before Roosevelt, in its refusal to recognize Russia was outlined by Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state in the cabinet of Woodrow Wilson, and was adhered to by three successors of President Wilson. Secretary Colby wrote:

"We can not recognize, hold official relations with, or give friendly reception to the agents of a government which is determined and bound to conspire against our institutions; whose diplomats will be agitators of dangerous revolt; whose spokesmen say that they sign agreements with no intention of keeping them."

Later the secretary who helped formulate the policy of the United States wrote:

"The original refusal of the United States to recognize Russia had nothing to do with the acknowledgment or repudiation of its debt to this country. . . . Our refusal was predicated upon the fact that Russia was an enemy state. Despite denials and the concealments and disguises employed by as subtle a propaganda as the world has ever seen, this enmity continues to be the foundation of soviet foreign policy. Its government is organically linked with and controlled by the Communist International, whose central purpose is the fomenting of revolution in every non-bolshevist state. . . . To concede recognition as a friend to a nation that protests she is not a friend, but, on the contrary, is dedicated to the overthrow of our institutions and sworn to conspire against our peace and security, is unthinkable—"a solemn lie," to use the words of Secretary Elihu Root.

The thing I admire about the American is his feeling of selection. If you ask him about a certain composition, he will admit it if he is unfamiliar with it.—Jose Iturbi, Spanish pianist.

The Communist Party of Russia does not concern America. The Communist Party of America does not concern Russia.—Maxim Litvinoff.

Don't worry—football will still be a major college sport, probably the leading sport.—Chancellor Charles W. Flint of Syracuse University.

There are no general principles of behavior, from the Ten Commandments down, that are not viewed with suspicion and distrust.—Dr. Charles C. Morris, editor.

We need a progressive inheritance tax to bring the U. S. out of its economic and social dilemma.—Senator Geo. W. Norris, Nebraska.

The members of the American Legion are good soldiers.—National Commander Edward A. Hayes.

My marriage was just another noble experiment gone wrong.—Mary McCormick.

As Duncy eyed the dipper he said, "That's the way it ought to be. Just seven stars are left, now that you've chased the others out."

"The Star Man smiled and said, 'Well, lad, I couldn't fool you, and I'm glad. You've proved to me that you know what the stars are all about.'"

"Oh, no I don't," snapped Duncy. "Gee, a lot of things still puzzle me. For instance, there are Northern Lights. Now, where do they come from?"

"I've seen them blazing in the sky, to brighten things up, way up high. Please tell me all about them, even though I may seem dumb."

"Now, wait," the old man said. "You'll see them after while. Just stick with me. Right now I have some other work that I am going to do."

"Who wants to help? It will be fun, and won't take long to get it done." Then willing little Coppy and wee Duncy cried, "We do!"

"We're very strong. We'll lend a hand." The old man answered. "Well, that's grand. The other Tinymites can wait right here till we return."

"We'll shortly give them a surprise that's bound to open up their eyes. My goodness, but you Tinyites still have lots and lots to learn."

They walked a little ways and then the Star Man spoke right up again. "Before you is a great big can. Inside there is a treat."

"Now, if you lads will do your best to roll it right back to the rest, I surely will be tickled. You will find it quite a feat."

"Aw, 'twill be easy," Duncy roared. And then he promptly hopped aboard the can, and rolled to Coppy. "Give a push and make it roll. Then you can leave the rest to me. I'll keep it going easily."

The plan worked fine, and soon the Star Man cried, "Well, bless my soul!" (Something very pretty comes out of the can in the next story.)

Franklin Defeats Compton 28-8

Playing their second game on their new floor Friday night the local high school defeated Compton in a hard fought battle. Franklins defense held their opponents to two field goals while our boys busied themselves making thirteen baskets.

This makes three wins out of four starts and we hope to make Lee Center on Dec. 8th, our next victim. The date of the Steward game has been postponed to some time in December.

Glee Chorus Rehearse

Singers begin new successful season.

Another successful season is just beginning for Franklin Grove, and the public will have the first opportunity of the season to hear the Glee Clubs in the musical comedy, "Sailor Maids", to be presented on Nov. 23 and 24. Admission 15 and 25 cents.

In the spring of 1933, more laurels had been won by the Glee clubs than ever before. Many of the same students are back with the Glee clubs again this year. A few new ones have been added, and greater hopes for the clubs are being forecasted this year than ever before.

Miss Dizdang reports that the groups show great promise this year.

The Glee Clubs lost very few members last year, and others are developing to take the vacant places. About half of the students in the high school have been receiving individual vocal instruction this year, which plan has not been followed previously, so that there will be more trained voices from which to select our contest group in the Spring.

The first presentation of the clubs here at Franklin Grove will be in the opera "Sailor Maids." Those students who make up the chorus of "Sailor Maids" are:

1st soprano—Hla Blocher, Muriel Weybright, Georgia Peterman and Josephine Hunt.

2nd soprano—Joan Fish, Leone Fiscal, Betty Wasson and Florence Blekking.

Altos—Lucille Yocum, Georgia Lehman, Noma Maronde and Lucille Buck.

Those students who play the chorus of Life Guards are:

Tenors—Jack Kelly, Bernard Gilroy, Earl Blekking, Robert Matern, Charles Lookingland, and Sheldon Hoover.

Story of the Operetta

Frances Marie, daughter of Cyrus Templeton, the light house keeper, and captain of a yachting crew of sailor maids, is celebrating her eighteenth birthday and the launching of her new yacht.

Edward Dover, an old friend and playmate sweetheart whom she has not seen for eight years, is to pilot the new yacht on its first voyage across the bay. Edward knows nothing about yachting and detests the ocean. When he arrives he is mistaken for a caterer whom they have employed to serve at a dinner party in the evening.

Because of his interest in Jeanette, a friend of Frances Marie and his host for the voyage, he does not reveal his true identity. Edward is aided in his plot of deception by David Kern, a yachtsman who comes with a message from the caterer.

David in turn is mistaken for Edward by Frances Marie and before he can explain, the real Edward prevails on him to assume his name and sail the yacht. David refuses but is drawn into the scheme by Edward's clever planning and held there by his interest in Frances Marie.

The climax comes when David learns Frances Marie's engagement to Edward Dover is soon to be announced. The true identity of both is revealed and Francis Marie and her friend are shocked at the discovery.

After much explaining the young men clear themselves and win the girls with fathers' blessings.

PILLAR OF SALT

By L. L. R.

For shame! It was advertised: "Whose afraid of the big, bad wolf?" It should have been: "Who's afraid of the big, bad wolf?"

Familiar headlines: "Settle Delays Stratophere Hop." Are you or aren't you? Get it "settled."

Distressing moments: No. 1. You are in a room filled with people you know only casually. There is much noise, and you are conversing in a loud voice, so as to be heard above the din. Suddenly, for no particular reason, the other noise stops, and your voice, raised as it is, booms out. Everyone laughs full sore.

No. 2. You are walking down the street with a friend. The friend halts to look at a show window. You walk on a few paces and look at goods in another store window. Someone comes along from your friend's direction, and you, thinking it is the friend but without thinking to make sure, saunter along with the other person for a block or so. You make some personal remark, and are surprised to find that your friend is far in the rear.

If you remember, the last day of this year's Century of Progress was a day of high winds. In the last scene of "Wings of a Century" an aeroplane is brought in. In this scene, on the last day of the Exposition, the plane just took to the air and landed in the lake. Of course the wind did it, but it reminds one of the old one horse shay. The plane lasted just during the time of the Fair.

ILLINOIS SALES TAX CAN NOW BE SHOWN IN OPEN

Merchants Can Tell Their Customers It's An Additional Cost

Illinois retail merchants may charge the sales tax as a separate item rather than cover it up by raising the price of their merchandise according to word received here today from the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

The announcement was based on a decision by the Illinois department of finance, which will permit retailers to carry out their original plan of keeping the tax "out in the open" and continually before the public's eye.

To do this, and thus have the public always aware that a part of the increased cost of living is due to the taxes the public pays, has long been the object of the Chamber of Commerce.

The ruling from the state Department of Finance is:

"A retailer may ADVERTISE to his clientele that his based prices are subject to a 2 per cent INCREASE on account of the increased cost of doing business under the Retailers' Occupational Tax act and made at this time by way of a separate item."

The retail merchants thus have the option of showing an increase in their selling price due to the increased cost of doing business under the act—and of showing it as a separate item. However, retailers must not hold out to their customers that they (the retailers) are agents for the State or that this is a tax on the customer. It must not be added simply as a tax but should be designated as an additional cost on account of tax.

TWO BILLS FOR LIQUOR CONTROL ARE SUBMITTED

members wanting to let the local governments have virtually complete power in deciding whether and how they would license and regulate liquor sales.

Divergent Theories
Divergent theories as to the amount of regulatory power to be granted the state government were embodied in the two liquor control bills. The strict "home rule" measure drafted under the leadership of Ward would give local authorities full power to "license, tax, regulate or prohibit" the sale of liquor.

The only license fees going to the state would be from railroad cars, boats and the 1934 World's Fair at Chicago.

Taxes on manufacture and importation of alcoholic beverages also would be collected by the state.

Containing three times as many provisions, the other control bill, championed by Ralph M. Shaw, of Chicago would divide authority and responsibility between the state and the local governments.

Shaw insisted that his plan provides for as much "home rule" as the Ward proposal which had the greater amount of support in yesterday's deliberations.

More Power To State
The Shaw bill provides for a state commission of three, to be appointed by the Governor, which would have advisory duties as well as a greater amount of regulatory power than that proposed for the state Department of Finance under the Ward proposal.

Both agreed that the word "saloon" should be forbidden and that liquor could not be sold at bars. Each would repeal the present beer law, enacted last spring.

Under both plans, no attempt was made to fix the amount of local liquor fees. The Ward bill proposes a state gallonage tax on manufacturers and distributors of two cents on beer, ten cents on wine and 50 cents on hard liquor. No definite figures were set in the preliminary draft of the Shaw measure.

Both For Local Option
Under the Shaw plan, the state would license manufacturers, distributors, railroads and boats, while both local and state licenses would be required for retail merchants, hotels, restaurants, clubs, beer gardens and cafes. Each type of license would serve a specific retail business.

Senator Ward would permit licenses to be revoked by the issuing authority, while in the other plan, Shaw proposed an elaborate system under which appeals to the state commission could be taken from the orders of the local commissioners. The state could not issue a licence if a local license had not been obtained.

Local officials would set the amount of the local fees under the Shaw bill and the mayors, village board presidents and county board presidents or chairmen would serve as liquor commissioners, who would have power to grant or revoke licenses, receive complaints and collect fees.

Both bills provide for local option, provide for penalties and prohibit distillers and brewers from having any interest in the retail liquor business.

Made Recommendations
The commission made the following recommendations:

1. The primary object of legislation on this subject should be the promotion of temperance.

2. So far as humanly possible, the recurrence of the evils associated with the liquor traffic in the pre-prohibition era should be prevented. This, of course, includes a prohibition against the old saloon as pledged in the platforms of the two major political parties.

3. Municipal and local governments should be given a large measure of home rule in the matter of regulating and controlling alcoholic beverages.

4. Local option should be provided for in the smallest political unit possible.

5. No legislation on the subject of alcoholic beverages may be satisfactorily enforced unless it is in accordance with the opinions and desires of a majority of people.

6. While it is desirable that revenues be provided for governmental needs by the imposition of taxes or license fees upon this industry, the total taxes or license fees levied should not be so heavy as to encourage and foster violations of law.

TIE GAMES HAVE EXPERTS IN DAZE FIGURING BIG 10

Everything Depends On a Lot Of "ifs" Concerning Saturday

Chicago, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Big Ten football championship race of 1933, which already has established a record for tie games with a half dozen deadlocks so far, had the experts in a daze today as they figured the "ifs" of the campaign that ends Saturday.

Five teams still have a chance of winning the title although Michigan still leads the field with four victories, one tie and no defeats. Here are a few of the big "ifs":

If Michigan defeats Northwestern, the Wolverines will retain the title.

If Northwestern defeats Michigan and Minnesota defeats Wisconsin, Minnesota will win the championship with 2 victories and four ties.

If Northwestern defeats Michigan and Wisconsin defeats Minnesota, the winner of the Illinois-Ohio State game would be champion with a record of four victories and one defeat.

If Minnesota wins, Michigan loses and Illinois and Ohio State tie, Minnesota would be champion.

If Minnesota and Michigan lose and Illinois and Ohio State tie, the race will wind up with five teams in a claim for the crown—Michigan, Minnesota, Purdue, Illinois and Ohio State.

If all four concluding conference games end in a tie, Michigan will keep the title.

You can go on and on, but even the experts can't think of a worse mess than that.

The former record for tie games in the Big Ten football championship race was four, occurring in 1900, 1903, and 1924. In 1924, Chicago won the title with a record of three victories and as many ties.

Around The Big Ten
Jay Berwanger, sophomore backfield star at Chicago, has played every minute in five Big Ten games, carrying the ball 119 times for a total of 368 yards, an average of slightly more than three yards a play.

Assistant Coach Jack Blott of Michigan scouted Northwestern last week and warns the Wolverines that they compare unfavorably with the best teams.

Ludwig Yards may take Ted Roosevelt's place at tackle for Ohio State. Roosevelt is nursing a sprained ankle.

Defense is the watchword at Wisconsin. Minnesota is polishing up its offense.

Captain Dutch Fehring of Purdue is definitely out of the Indiana game because of injuries, says Coach Noble Kizer.

Defense against Nebraska's aerial play is studied at Iowa. Crain Postman is still holding a halfback post at Illinois.

On comparative scores alone there is little or nothing to choose between the two Harvard outplayed Dartmouth by a wide margin but got only a 7-7 tie. Yale was outplayed by the Indians but won, 14-13.

The EZs tripped Brown, 14-6, while Harvard trimmed the same team, 12-6. Yale bowed to Army, 21-0 while the Cadets ran up a 27-0 count on Harvard. On these three games Yale's apparent margin over the Crimson consists of a touchdown and three extra points.

Yale wound up series work for the Harvard game with a snappy offensive drill against the scrubs yesterday. One significant change in the first-string lineup had Vic Malin, varsity center last year, at his old post. Many pounds overweight, Malin has been assigned to the second and third teams most of the season, trying to get down to normal pounds.

Harry Combs, a junior from Denver, still held the left and post which he wrested from Dick Herold. Combs was regarded as a certain starter Saturday. Of the backfield men, Captain Bob Lassiter and Bill Keesling were especially impressive against the scrubs.

Harvard Wants Speed
Light drills have been scheduled for the Blue today and tomorrow morning for the squad leaves Friday morning for Cambridge.

Harvard meanwhile worked out in a long, hard drill as Eddie Casey stressed speed and the perfect execution of fundamentals. Some concern was felt over the condition of Francis Lane, halfback, and Art Cheek, end. Lane hobbled about with the aid of a walking stick but Cheek did not report for practice.

SECOND TRADE FOR CUBS SAID TO BE COMPLETE

However Club Officials Deny Deal Is Made for Chick Hafey

Chicago, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Reports that the Cubs already had completed a deal, whereby pitcher Pat Malone together with outfielder Kiki Cuyler and Jim Moffat would go to the Cincinnati Reds in exchange for outfielder "Chick" Hafey, were revived today as Cub fans welcomed the acquisition of Charles "Chuck" Klein, one of the greatest left handed hitters in base ball.

The Klein, dead reported three weeks ago as closed, was announced yesterday. The Cubs obtained Klein from Philadelphia for cash, estimates of the amount ranging from $55,000 to $100,000, and three players—utility infielders Mark Kooning and Harvey "Gink" Hendrick, and Ted Kleinhaus, a left handed pitcher recently obtained by the Cubs from Atlanta.

Cub officials denied the deal for Hafey, but reports were that it already had been closed. For some time, it has been known definitely that the Cub officials believed a change would be beneficial for Malone, but Cuyler was regarded as a fixture with the team at least for several more years. Moffat has been used mostly in a utility role.

Have Visions of Flag
Visions of a National League pennant in 1933 were seen by Cub fans through the Klein deal. The Philadelphia star won the National League batting championship last season and led both leagues in hitting with an average of .368.

His lifetime average at Philadelphia, where he started his major league career, is .359. Wrigley Field with its short right field fence always has been one of Klein's soft spots.

Klein made his first professional baseball appearance with Evansville of the old Three Eye League in 1927 after amateur experience at Indianapolis. He went to Philadelphia the following year for a price reported all the way from $200 to $7,500 and hit his stride the first season by batting .360.

His six-year batting and fielding record with Philadelphia:

Year	Batting	Fielding	Average
1928	360	.387
1929	356	.366

ARMY AND NAVY, YALE-HARVARD TILTS FEATURES

These Games Hold Interest of Eastern Gridiron Fans

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

New York Nov. 22.—(AP)—Twice beaten Yale meets twice-beaten Harvard at Cambridge on Saturday but it wouldn't make any difference if they'd lost all their previous games. This is the one that counts.

For that reason, alone, the experts rarely are willing to install either Blue or Crimson a decided favorite. All that has gone before can be tossed out as irrelevant.

Yale, with perhaps a slight edge in the line, appears a thin silver the stronger. The Elks have beaten Maine, Washington and Brown and Dartmouth while losing to the Army and Georgia teams. Harvard has won from Bates, New Hampshire, Lehigh and Brown, while tying Dartmouth and losing to Holy Cross and Army.

Little To Choose From
On comparative scores alone there is little or nothing to choose between the two. Harvard outplayed Dartmouth by a wide margin but got only a 7-7 tie. Yale was outplayed by the Indians but won, 14-13.

The EZs tripped Brown, 14-6, while Harvard trimmed the same team, 12-6. Yale bowed to Army, 21-0 while the Cadets ran up a 27-0 count on Harvard. On these three games Yale's apparent margin over the Crimson consists of a touchdown and three extra points.

Yale wound up series work for the Harvard game with a snappy offensive drill against the scrubs yesterday. One significant change in the first-string lineup had Vic Malin, varsity center last year, at his old post. Many pounds overweight, Malin has been assigned to the second and third teams most of the season, trying to get down to normal pounds.

Harry Combs, a junior from Denver, still held the left and post which he wrested from Dick Herold. Combs was regarded as a certain starter Saturday. Of the backfield men, Captain Bob Lassiter and Bill Keesling were especially impressive against the scrubs.

Harvard Wants Speed
Light drills have been scheduled for the Blue today and tomorrow morning for the squad leaves Friday morning for Cambridge.

Harvard meanwhile worked out in a long, hard drill as Eddie Casey stressed speed and the perfect execution of fundamentals. Some concern was felt over the condition of Francis Lane, halfback, and Art Cheek, end. Lane hobbled about with the aid of a walking stick but Cheek did not report for practice.

Who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader found dead in his apartment?

DAVID BANNISTER, an author, former newspaper reporter, undertakes to find out. Police are searching for an "unknown blond," known to have visited King shortly before his death. HERMAN SCHULACH, who wrote King a threatening letter, is in jail. He also declares his innocence.

Bannister works on the case with J. RANDOLPH GAINLEY, star reporter of the Post. In the dead man's apartment Bannister picks up an old-fashioned wedding picture and keeps it as a possession.

FIVE OF STONE COMPANY HEADS GET NEW TRIALS

Supreme Court In Refusal To Review Reversal

Chicago, Nov. 22.—(AP)—United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green said he would ask one of the local Federal judges to set a date today for the new trial of five officials of the H. O. Stone Company on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Green made his announcement after being notified yesterday from Washington that the Supreme Court had refused to review the case as requested by the District Attorney's office after the Circuit Court of Appeals had reversed the convictions culminating the first trial.

The defendants were convicted by a jury in the court of U. S. Judge Charles E. Woodward and were sentenced to 20 years in prison each after the failure of the Stone company and the loss to investors of approximately $14,000,000.

Those who win new trials are Henry F. Norcott, former president; Harold D. Bennett, Charles P. Packer, W. Scott Carroll and Leslie A. Needham.

OBITUARY

AARON W. GUEST

Rochelle—Aaron Wesley Guest was born Dec. 9, 1859 and died Nov. 13, 1933 at his home, 1021 Fourth avenue, aged 73 years, 11 months and 6 days. His birth occurred on a farm in Ogle county his entire life.

He was a son of the late Thomas and Ann Pettipiece Guest. The deceased received his education in the local schools and the Wheaton college. One of his first business ventures was the operation of a general store at Kings with Walter King as his partner. He later entered the district offices of the Burlington railroad which were located at Rochelle. He also served as secretary of the Rock River Telephone company, entered the employ of the private bank of William Stocking and was one of the original directors and secretary of the Stocking Trust and Savings bank, its successor. He continued with the Rochelle Trust and Savings bank being honored with the office of cashier, president and chairman of the board of directors.

Mr. Guest served on the school board of district No. 131, as township school treasurer as a library trustee, and on the city council. He was a member of the Rochelle Masonic bodies, Sycamore Commandery, Knights Templar and Medinah Temple Shrine of Chicago.

On Nov. 19, 1885, he was united in marriage to Minnie Louise Countryman. To this union, a son, Arthur T. Guest was born. Mrs. Guest died May 29, 1889. On Oct. 5, 1898 he was married to Miss Lorena Pratt. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lorena P. Guest, his son, Arthur T. Guest, a brother, Francis J. Guest of Wadena, Minn., and two sisters, Miss Maria Guest and Mrs. Elsie M. Wagner, both of Rochelle. A brother, George W. Guest died September 2, 1933. He is also survived by two granddaughters, Clara Kimball Guest, aged 5 and Clara Marjorie Guest, aged 2. Funeral services were held from the home of the son, Arthur T. Guest, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 due to the serious illness of Mrs. Lorena P. Guest. Rev. Frank A. Campbell, pastor of the Presbyterian church officiated and the hymns, "Lead Kindly Light," and "God be With You Till We Meet Again," were sung by Mesdames Floyd Bienfang and Raymond Law. Masonic rites were observed at the grave at Lawnridge cemetery and pall bearers were all members of Rochelle lodge of Masons.

An appreciation from an acquaintance of many years:

Mr. Aaron Guest throughout his life was identified with the many activities of community benefit, always in sympathy with constructive benefit and generous in giving to the needy and to public enterprises. Of a decidedly studious turn of mind, he was an inveterate reader—he kept abreast of the time and interested in world affairs. He was a remarkably modest and unassuming man, tolerant and unassuming of the efforts of others, generous and considerate in his opinions, never voicing criticism or bitterness.

He was a good husband and father and thoroughly devoted to his two beloved grandchildren who never failing source of comfort to him and to Mrs. Guest in the recent years.

Now he is gone but we shall miss him. There is a calm for those who weep. A rest for weary pilgrim bound. They softly and sweetly sleep.

JOHNSON HOPES FOR GIVE-TAKE INDUSTRY CODE

Apparently Willing To Accept Compromise For Code

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A give-and-take compromise, Hugh S. Johnson hoped today, will put before him by Monday an acceptable recovery code for the basic construction industry.

Unable to get an agreement by various interests in public hearings on the general code now pending, he turned the matter over to a special committee comprising two representatives for labor and six for the various industrial groups involved. Two NRA officials will sit in.

The primary point at issue is that of hours of work. Workers, through President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and others, demand a 30-hour week, holding that maximum necessary to employ the unemployed. Builders and engineers on the other hand hold out for 40 hours with extension to 48 after time had been lost because of bad weather.

To be quieted, too, is labor's fear that workers in the highly organized buildings trades might be forced to take lower wages if one code is applied to all construction.

BLACK THOUGHTS

Dr. Joseph Fort Newton.

"When you're a married man," said the elder Samuel Weller, in the Dickens story, "you'll understand a good many things as you don't understand now. What it is worth while going through so much to earn so little, as the charity boy said when he got to the end of the alphabet, is a matter of taste."

But why so gloomy, colorless and depressing? The reason was a return of his old rheumatism, a hang-over from the days when he drove the Ipswich coach, and it had pulled him down. As often happens, a tired body had dragged his robust mind down with it, making him moody. As a consequence, it was an exhausting failure.

It is hard to have radiant thoughts and rheumatic pains at the same time. Each of us ought to have a card, twelve inches by six, hung up at the foot of our bed, with these words printed on it in large letters to be read the last thing at night and the first thing in the morning:

"Do not trust your sick thoughts, or take your night thoughts seriously—they never tell the truth."

It would save us from the folly of thinking that at last we have become wise pessimists, when in fact there is a either a bug in our blood or a foolish fear in our mind, and we need a pill or a prayer, or both. All of us know now dark beyond belief things can be at three in the morning on a sleepless night, and how big beyond measure even trifles become; and how they shrivel up in our saner waking hours, in the clearer, kinder light of morning.

The whole world has been very sick of late years, first with the fever of war, followed by the chill of disillusionment and despair. Its temperature is still erratic, either too high or sanity or too low for safety. No wonder we have black thoughts and deeds.

We need a placard printed on the sky for the whole world to read:

"Do not believe in your doubts and fears, mistaking your pessimists for prophets—God is not dead and society is not lost."

CHARCOAL AS A MEDICINE

There was a time when wood charcoal, or carbo-ligni, as it is called in Latin, had an important place among the drugs commonly prescribed by physicians. In recent years, however, it has been dropped from such lists of useful drugs. Perhaps charcoal has suffered because of the exaggerated claims of its proponents. At one time it was commonly employed in the treatment of a variety of gastric disturbances.

Charcoal, of course, cannot cure dyspepsia or do much for indigestion. At best it can serve as a palliative, reducing some of the discomfort associated with these conditions. For charcoal has an uncommon capacity for absorbing a variety of substances, including gases and fluids.

It is in this connection that charcoal has been brought forward as useful in the emergency treatment of poisoning.

Two Canadian scientists have demonstrated that charcoal is an excellent medicinal substance in cases of poisoning, and they claim that in 21 cases where death would presumably have occurred, the administration of charcoal saved the patient.

Among the poisons studied in this connection were phosphorus, morphine, bicarbonate of mercury, arsenic, veronal and alcohol.

Experimentally it was shown also that charcoal has the capacity to absorb large amounts of poisonous materials. For example, a single teaspoon of charcoal can absorb about six times the amount of strychnine that would prove fatal to a man.

When, therefore, a poisoning emergency arises, charcoal in a powder form can prove a useful first-aid treatment. When the nature of the poison is unknown, when there is an unavoidable delay in washing out the stomach, and both before and after vomiting has been induced, the poisoned individual can profit by the administration of several teaspoonsful of the charcoal.
